“Global retailers significantly expanded their market share during the COVID-19 as they were able to remain open in these difficult times,” stated Dr. Thilo Senst, Founder and CEO of GBLT Corp. “These store chains are GBLT’s biggest clients and accordingly we have seen growth in their spend with us as consumers continue to require mobile energy and battery solutions. As a result, we are a direct beneficiary of these retailers continuing to not only maintain but capture new market share as the end consumer shows their brand loyalty to our products during this period of transition to normalcy.”

Dr. Senst continued, “We continue to prove to retailers that we are able to deliver top-tier products even in difficult times. Our relationships with these companies as a listed vendor are extremely valuable and remain a key driver of our growth as an organization going forward and as we continue to deliver products believe this will further drive the strongest performance in our company history.”
